

FREE WEBINAR

The Value of Conservation Areas

Dan Cooper

Director of Conservation Areas and Stewardship

Wednesday, January 20, at 2:00 PM.

Image from Rideau Valley Conservation Authority

REGISTER NOW

Conservation Areas are an integral component of the rural landscape and have become increasingly popular destinations as a catharsis from the pandemic. Conservation Areas provide opportunities for a variety of outdoor recreational experiences and educational services for the public and help us achieve a better understanding of our relationship with the natural environment.

In this second ZOOM Webinar in our educational program, Dan Cooper, Director of Conservation Areas and Stewardship for our area will provide us with an overview of the services available through our conservation areas, the program for outdoor education, opportunities for environmental stewardship and ways that the Rideau Valley Conservation Foundation supports conservation and stewardship programs and initiatives.

Please join us for an enlightening presentation on Wednesday, January 20th at 2:00 pm. Please register for this event by emailing us at register@taywatershed.ca

On registration, you will receive, an invitation containing the link to the seminar along with date and time reminder and information on how to join the meeting.

Keep up to date with watershed news,
click on <http://taywatershed.ca>

Friends of the Tay Watershed Association, P.O. Box 2065, 57 Foster Street, Perth, ON K7H 3M9

We All Live Downstream...
